

plastiq* — sirens and beats:

plastiq is a trio since 2016. Improvising with voice, synthesizer, beats and acoustic instruments like the mbira or violin, the band explores the interface between acoustic and synthetic tones. A plastiq live happening originates music profoundly shaped by the character of the room and by the listener's attitude. The trio often collaborates with other art genres. Video, installation, performance and theatre are part of the platform on which plastiq's members develop and articulate their different interests and ideas.

The group has released three records so far, all collages of recorded live sessions.

In late 2019 plastiq has hosted the project 'Interstation' at Fleetstreet Theater Hamburg. Eight artists from different countries and disciplines were invited to collectively develop the tale 'Interstation' over a span of two months. 'Interstation' is music arranged for space and it is collective artistic practise. The project still evolves.
